

S & T Moore

Laura Nelson - The S & T Moore site was once home of Christie's picture house, opened 1914, renamed the Palace in 1963 and closed in the seventies. This site has also housed a repair garage, and so this art deco model cinema piece pays homage to and celebrates the industry, trades and crafts on which Coleraine is built.

3-12-15	Samuel Moore	on about 1978 when we first opened our first shop in Bridge St I was up a ladder painting a sign on the front of the shop, when I accidentally spilled some of the paint out of the tin. But there was two ladies passing by, and the coat was splashed with the paint - said she had to buy her a new coat
	Samuel Moore	when we first opened our second shop in Bridge St, there was lead pipes from an old heating system in the basement still around the walls (1983), the boiler would be soaked with coal to heat the water, must have been cold in the old days
3/3/16	J Jones	Bought my school uniform in this shop in Bridge St 1984!
18/3/16	Arnold Kennedy	Used to watch all the latest movies in this building (Christies Picture House)
24-3-16	N. McDonald	Reminds who S.T. Moore was in Bridge Street
