

100 FAMOUS SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE CAUSEWAY COAST AND GLENS

This online exhibition highlights the extraordinary contributions made by people of the Borough during the first 100 years of Northern Ireland. It is part of Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council's programme to mark the centenary of Northern Ireland.

From hundreds of public nominations, the Council's NI100 Working Group, supported by local historians, shortlisted 100 people, who were born or have lived in the Causeway Coast and Glens area since 1921, to showcase their achievements.

The top 100 Famous Sons and Daughters are arranged alphabetically within each of the four themes chosen for the NI100 programme:

- Food, Drink and Entertainment
- Great Northern Minds and Innovation
- Heritage and Culture
- Sport and Wellbeing and Community Development

The full list of all the nominations is available at <http://www.niarchive.org>

It is important to recognise that the social, political and economic context within the Borough and beyond has changed and developed over the last 100 years. Circumstances to fully participate and be recognised in the sphere of public life, within the time-frame for this project, may therefore not have always have been as readily accessible to certain members of society in the way we understand and experience life today.
